A Day of Planting

More than 150 faculty, staff, students and friends of the campus planted flowers during the first annual Chauncey Leake Day on June 2. Leake was the distinguished scientist and teacher who died in 1978 after devoting a half-century of service to UC-San Francisco.

A garden at the building at 745 Parnassus was dedicated to Leake and the first UCSF boundary sign was unveiled there. A mini park behind UC Hospital was dedicated to Nat Garibaldi, manager of the campus Physical Plant Department, who was responsible for creating it and other areas for relaxation around the campus. The youngsters at the Child Care/Study Center planted a vegetable and flower garden in the lot just down the hill from the corner of Third and Parnassus.

UCSF's new marching band, consisting of 11 members of the UCSF faculty and staff, led the procession to each area where planting took place.

Leake Day will be held annually. It is part of the campus beautification program, an ongoing project which includes continuing to plant trees to line Parnassus Avenue and to border the entire campus; erecting special signs demarking the edges of the campus, and benches on Parnassus and Third Avenues for people to sit and rest.

In addition, the neighborhood is invited to attend the first annual UCSF family picnic, scheduled for Saturday, October 10, at Golden Gate Park's Speedway Meadows. See future issues of "To Our Neighbors" for details.

Chancellor Sooy to Step Down in 1982

Francis A. Sooy, MD, who has been Chancellor of UCSF for ten years, has announced plans to retire effective July 1, 1982, in order to devote more time to his medical practice.

A noted ear surgeon, Sooy is the fifth physician to serve as chancellor in the UC system, and the only one to combine administrative duties with an active clinical practice.

UC President David S. Saxon declared to the UC Regents that under Sooy's leadership "UCSF has enhanced its position as one of the most distinguished health sciences campuses in the country, with a level of excellence reflected in the peer evaluation of its faculty; in the quality of its professional students, house officers and postdoctoral candidates in both basic and social and behavioral sciences; in the broad range of patient care referrals from all over the state, and indeed the rest of the country; and in the level of research funding and achievements that have emanated from UCSF."

Saxon noted that under Sooy's stewardship:

- the new School of Dentistry building was completed, enabling the School to achieve its commitment for increased enrollment, renewal of its accreditation, and the development, in cooperation with Speaker Willie Brown, of two community clinics in underserved areas;
- the new Long Hospital and the modernized Moffitt Hospital projects have been brought almost to completion and will be operational by the fall of 1982;
- the campus was able to turn around its relationship with the surrounding community, from one of tension in some quarters to pride and participation in the campus, which has become a health care, educational, cultural and recreational resource for the people who live nearby;
- UCSF has become a major economic resource for the economy of San Francisco and one of its largest employers, with an annual budget which more than doubled in 10 years from $107 million to $284 million, only one-fourth of which comes from state funds;
- UCSF has provided a unique opportunity for upward mobility in the health professions for people of all backgrounds; and
- the campus has established a Board of Overseers, an advisory group of 20 members who, due to the national stature and enhanced reputation of the campus, have been drawn from the top ranks of the nation's business and community leaders.

Bus Service from Golden Gate Bridge

Another opportunity for staff and visitors to avoid driving to campus has been made possible by a new bus service from Golden Gate Bridge to the Daly City BART station. The new bus service, called "Route 66," went into operation last month. It connects the toll plaza with buses from Marin and Sonoma and travels via Park Presidio Boulevard and 19th Avenue. It stops at 19th Avenue at Lincoln Way, Judah connecting with the MUNI N line to UCSF, Noriega, Quintara, Taraval, Holloway, and the Daly City BART station.

Route 66, which is on a six-month trial basis, operates Monday through Friday, except holidays.

More Than 700 Graduate

Seven hundred and eighteen students graduated from UC-San Francisco's four professional schools during commencement exercises in June.

- 154 became physicians with a MD degree,
- 107 became pharmacists and another 15 took the advanced PhD degree,
- 143 became nurses and another 139 took advanced master and doctorate degrees in Nursing,
- 88 students became dentists and 23 dental hygienists.

In addition, the School of Medicine graduated 20 with a PhD in the basic sciences, 37 psychiatry residents, child psychiatry fellows and clinical psychology fellows, as well as 10 students with Doctor of Mental Health degrees and 2 PhDs in human development and aging.

Major student award winners included Karen M. Johnston, MD, of San Francisco, who received the Gold-Headed Cane Award from the School of Medicine — the highest honor a graduating medical student can receive, and Virginia E. White of Redlands, who won the Bowl of Hygeia Award, which goes to the year's outstanding School of Pharmacy student. Dental students receiving multiple awards included Robert N. Katibah and Terry Eggleston, both from San Francisco, Nancy A. Huber of Redding and Beverly A. Kodama of Yuba City.

Two UCSF Experts Testify

Two experts from UC-San Francisco testified in June on two health problems affecting the U.S.

Pulmonary specialist Homer A. Boushey, Jr., MD, testified before the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works, suggesting that proposed changes lowering the standards of pollution in the Clean Air Act may jeopardize the health status of one in ten Americans. He pointed out that 8-15 million asthmatics, and 15 million hay fever sufferers are already at risk under existing air pollution standards.

Milton M. Silverman, PhD, a lecturer in the School of Pharmacy and the UCSF Institute for Health Policy Studies, presented a paper on "drug dumping" at the world conference of the International Organization of Consumers Union in the Netherlands. The study was on the practice of pharmaceutical companies selling in developing nations, drug products removed from other markets because they were found to be unsafe, or ineffective, or both. Drug dumping in Third World countries by the U.S. and other industrialized nations is carried out with alarming frequency, despite international attention to such a disgraceful practice, according to Silverman and UCSF co-investigators.

Teens 'N Theater Film Premiere

A film starring the SFGH-based Teens 'N Theater will be premiered Sunday, July 12 at 1 p.m. at the Roxie Theater, 3117 -16th St., San Francisco. It is free and open to the public.

The 30-minute, 16 mm color film traces the development of a group of multi-ethnic urban teenagers from audition line hopefuls to a full-fledged peer education theater company. The film explores communication, sexuality, changing male roles, and attitudes of Latino and multi-cultural youth through documentary interviews and dramatization.

Teens 'N Theater program is under the sponsorship of the UCSF Teen Family Planning Project, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. It is comprised of 14 teenagers from Mission, Woodrow Wilson, John O'Connell, Balboa and Downtown high schools. The group has given 23 performances in the greater Bay Area since it was founded in September, 1980.
